

All Right Texas in a Blaze.—The Red River Republican on the 29th ult. states that gentlemen direct from Texas, and from the most thickly settled portions of it, passed down on Thursday last. They represent the country as in a perfect blaze of joy and excitement, at the prospect of immediate annexation. When the news of the passage of the Joint Resolution through both Houses of Congress reached San Augustine, cannon were fired, and a public meeting held, to express the pleasure every one felt, at the assurance that Texas would be admitted to close communion with the sisters of the Union—that she would once more be found in the family circle, from which she was driven by a distinguished federal chief who at Ghent was willing to surrender the navigation of a river that bears on its bosom the commerce of a world, for a mess of codfish!

A gentleman of undoubted veracity, well known to many of the citizens of Rapides, and a shrewd and intelligent observer of the passing events, asserts that the feeling in the young republic is almost unanimous in favor of annexation. His acquaintance is very extensive, comprising several members of President Jones' cabinet, and he says that he does not know of a half a dozen settlers in that fair land, who are opposed to placing the lone star on the banner of our country, on the terms proposed by the Joint Resolution. The opposition of ex-President Houston, he says, or that of any other man or clique in the country, would be absolutely contemptible, strong as is the feeling in every quarter for the consummation of the labor of love, of the patriots of both countries. Faction dare not raise its gorgon head to breathe forth anathemas against this master stroke of policy, and the harpings of aspiring demagogues in Austin's land, will be as the fitful murmur of the breeze through the branches of some giant pine, which has stood proudly up for an age, against elemental strife.

Equally futile will be the Mawworm exhortations of the small fry playthings of Ambition, should they have the temerity to take a Quixotic stand against the rushing tide that envelops them.

In the opinion of the most intelligent citizen of Texas, say our informants, the lands unsold will when brought into market pay the actual debt now due, and leave a large surplus in the treasury. There are vast tracts of country yet unexplored, which can not long escape the keen scrutiny of the hardy, enterprising emigrants who will now pour into the garden of America, under the aegis of our glorious standard-bearer. Sunshine is now dispelling the cinerian clouds which for so many weary years have darkened the firmament of Texas, and in a few short months her voice will be heard in the councils of the free. She will be an integral portion of a country that acknowledges no rival—her sons and daughters will mingle in sweet harmony with relatives and friends who bend the knee only to God—bearing the Lion of Despotism in his den, and commanding the admiration of the world! Beautiful are the lines of England's wayward son of Genius—

—“One great claim,
Whose vigorous offspring by dividing ocean
Are kept apart and cursed in the devotion
Of Freedom, which their fathers fought for,
And bequeathed it, a heritage of faith and hand,
And proud distinction from each other land,
Whose sons must bow to a monarch's motion,
As if his senseless sceptre were a wand
Full of the magic of exploded science—
Still one great claim, in full and free domain
Yet tears her crest, unconquered and sublime,

There is one powerful reason, among others, which for a long time past, has exerted an irresistible influence in favor of annexation. The government has been so straitened by pecuniary embarrassments, large grants of land have been made to German, Prussian and French capitalists, to obtain money for pressing necessities. These capitalists have taken into the country droves of emigrants by no means of the best description. They have no knowledge of the language or instructions of the country—have no intercourse with the Texans—and in some instances, are governed by laws of their own creation. The old inhabitants have looked with just alarm to the consequences that must inevitably flow from such a state of things, when it is considered that in a very short time they would be able to control the ballot-box. The prospect now is entirely changed.—The emigration from this country, and from the better portions of Europe, will give the liberal and enlightened party in the country, due preponderance, and prevent the success of narrow, clanish and bigoted views. Success to the youngest daughter of Uncle Sam!—N. Y. Plebeian.

Two hundred years ago Rhode Island was called “Island of Errors.” Seventy-seven years ago, the Sons of Liberty advertised it as “a plague-spot,” because its majority favored British torism, rather than American whiggism. In 1789 Washington refused to pass through it on his visit to New England, because it still refused to come into the Union, and was as much a foreign State as Canada.—And to-day a portion of its citizens are alien in principle as a majority were in 1789. It is too bad that Thomas W. Dorr lies in a dungeon for maintaining the great principles that made us a nation.

Manchester Murder.—We do not learn says the Exeter News Letter, that the murderer is detected or that the Committee is on the track of him. It is possible that the murder is at home—at Manchester—and among the busiest in gathering and reporting rumors of suspected persons at a distance. The Committee will do well to keep a sharp eye on what is immediately about them, as well as abroad. The assassins of White were detected by their zeal to implicate others. The murderer will yet be discovered. He will betray himself. The secret is too mighty for him—He will reveal it in his guilty look, his downcast eye. He will dream aloud, and tell the tale of blood in his unquiet slumbers. The mark of Cain is on his brow, and every day of anxiety and night of horror will deepen and darken it till he who runs can read it. From the stings of his guilty conscience there is no escape, no respite, and he may yet fly from their refuge to the gallows and the grave.

GREAT FIRE AT MILWAUKIE.—An extra from the office of the Milwaukee Courier, dated Sunday, April 6th, says that a fire broke out that morning about 4 o'clock, which destroyed two entire squares containing more than thirty buildings. The Insurance Companies, who have agencies in Milwaukee, are sufferers in the following amounts: Aetna, Hartford, $11,000; Hartford, 5,000; Protection, Hartford, 5,000; National, New York, 3,500; Wisconsin Marine and Fire Insurance, 4,000; Howard Company, New York, $5,000. A number of persons were seriously injured by the explosion of powder in the variety store, among whom we regret to learn, were Messrs N. A. McClure and Samuel Robinson.—A German was injured by the falling of one of the fire hooks, while pulling down a building. The weather was very calm when the fire broke out, which alone saved it from spreading to a greater extent.

The Bible in China.—Rev. Dr. Bridgman, in a recent letter to the American Bible Society says:

“The demands for Christian books is increasing, and doubtless will increase until the whole empire of China has received the gospel. Repeatedly, in the course of this month, I have distributed more than two hundred portions of the Bible, among the Chinese, before breakfast, and all at the same spot, the door of our depositary.

“Dr. Ball and myself have now arranged for a daily morning and evening distribution of books, and we try to improve these opportunities, not only to put the bread of life into their hands, but to sound the name of Jesus in their ears.”

Sea Monster.—The Philadelphia Morning Post has a letter from “a man of the most undoubted veracity,” dated Cape May, April 13th, which contains the following description of a most singular sea monster that has lately made his appearance near that place.

“It appears to be about sixty or seventy feet long and more than eight feet wide at the widest part, which is about one-third of the way from the head; from this point it gradually tapers to the tail. It cannot be very thick, as we had an opportunity of viewing it yesterday, as it lay, apparently lifeless, on the top of the water for fifteen minutes at a time; it would then sink out of sight, then come up again in the same place and blow, but its blowing is not like the blowing of a whale, since the jet of water appears to proceed from very near the widest part of it. After blowing, he will rear his head on high, (say at least six feet) look around, and then lie quietly down.—The water caused by the blowing does not rise higher than ten feet, and the column is not larger than your cane, 3 or 4 feet, and does not keep in a body but flies about in every direction. After it (the animal) has gone one half the height to which it raises, the head is about as large as a hoghead, and appears to be flat on the top, with, as some say who have been along side of him, a hooked beak, like a logger-head turtle.

“The person who gave me this information respecting the appearance of the head is a man whom I can depend upon; the animal passed within ten feet from him while he lay to an anchor in one of the pilot boats, and he thus had a fair opportunity of seeing him. The monster is perfectly black and is covered with a kind of black muscle or barnacle. As regards its movements, I find it difficult to convey an idea of them to you—sometimes he appears to have fins, or flappers all along his sides, which make a great foam and a wake in the water—at another time he will appear to be rigged out with one of the most powerful propellers, after the fashion of the Princeton, as he goes faster than any steamboat, but does not make any wake—again he will go tumbling along like an old day porpoise. His favorite resort appears to be from Cold Spring Inlet to around in the Bay say two or three miles above the steamboat landing, and almost always so near the shore that you can see him without the aid of a spy-glass; at times when it is smooth, he is observed to be just off the breakers.

“It was first seen on the 18th day of March by a great many persons at once; these spectators were principally strangers, twenty-five of whom were down here at work at McManis's house. It is not seen every day—sometimes it will not be seen for three or four days at a time.

“We have made up our minds to take him at every hazard—we have four good whale boats and every thing which may be requisite for the enterprise, except that we are still wanting the proper number of men necessary for the undertaking.”

Advices from Mexico have been received here at Key West, via Havana.—The news is substantially the same already received here. A letter-writer hazards the conjecture that Gen. Canizales will be shot, the Attorney General having urged capital punishment; whereas, Bassadre, ex-Minister of war, author of the offensive decrees of the 29th of November, 1844, and of all the objectionable acts of Santa Ana's misgovernment, will only receive ten years' punishment. But this is mere speculation.

N. O. Pic., Apr. 9th

Mr. O. W. Bacon, “the young man” who was formerly a Baptist by profession, but has recently been “holding forth” at South Pomfret, and other places, as a Universalist, has renounced the doctrine, and now seems inclined to the Methodists. As he was not a member of a society or church of our order, and for various reasons was not recognized as a preacher, but “went upon his own hook” entirely, we have no grounds of complaint that he has changed his profession and course of proceeding. Let every one be fully persuaded in his own mind and act accordingly.
